Northland Community Council Volunteer Awards Banquet

by Charlene Combs

NCC Honoree Sam Shy flanked by Salem Civic Association representatives Jeff Combs, Charlene Combs, (Sam Shy), Chris Rudin and Pat Hammel.

What a fun night! Little Turtle Golf Club was the site for a lovely dinner and an opportunity to acknowledge some very dedicated residents of the Northland area for their commitments to their neighborhoods. A few of the SCA board members attended this banquet—as did Mayor Ginther and council member Emmanuel Remy—to witness Sam Shy honored for all her hard work for Salem, among the Northland residents distinguished. It was such a privilege to see the many people recognized for their investment in their neighborhoods and the community in general. Thank you, Sam, for all you do!

There may even have been some schmoozing and posing with the mayor!

It's a Dinner Meeting – Cookout!

by Charlene Combs

Please join us on June 25 for our association meeting and cookout. We will be firing up the grill around 6:00 p.m. Meeting time is 7:00, so this is a great opportunity to come early to meet and socialize with your neighbors. If you have never attended a meeting, this is a perfect time to begin. Bring the kids and your appetite! We will provide the meats, buns, drinks, and some sides and desserts. Feel free to bring a side or dessert to share—show off your cooking skills! Bring along any games you would like to play, as well. Hope to see you there!

What's the Point?

by Jake Wheeler

Why even bother joining a civic association?

Throughout the course of attending civic meetings and performing my duties as an officer, I have intermittently struggled with the reasons I bother to put time and effort into our neighborhood association. Dealing with this internal conflict always leads me to the same conclusion: every person desires a high-quality neighborhood they can call home. A neighborhood organization presents a unique opportunity for residents to provide that for themselves.

A civic association is a group of neighbors who join together to work for the betterment of the community. It exists so we can take collective action toward the goal of improving the place we live. It gives us a platform to express our desires to city council, the mayor, the police, our schools, and other entities. It gives us a forum to discuss ideas and resolve conflicts. It gives us a mechanism to celebrate our diversity and to know and help one another.

Together we can be more effective at preserving and developing the cleaner, healthier, safer, and friendlier neighborhood that we all desire.

Most of us in Salem already do our best on an individual level to work toward this goal. We take care of our lawns and we report issues that we find concerning. It's true that many of us are not excited about adding another activity or responsibility to our schedule. I am certainly in that camp. It's easy to assume that someone else will step up and do what we don't want to do. Unfortunately, however, this is not always the case. That's the whole reason I'm currently serving as the membership officer: because no one else was going to do it. Without a membership chair we don't have anyone to manage membership, and without membership we don't have an organization. Without an organization we lose our collective voice. This is not meant to guilt or shame anyone, it's just the truth.

I believe our neighborhood is a hidden gem in our city. I also believe there are many residents here who are hidden gems themselves. Some of us have unique talents and abilities that can be used to propel our neighborhood beyond a sustaining level of good into a surpassing level of greatness. At the very least, we all have a voice that matters and that should be part of a larger conversation.

We all know that what affects our neighborhood at large also affects us individually. That makes us all stakeholders as residents. I urge all of you as my neighbors to not just be a stakeholder in our neighborhood, but be a shareholder as well. Please join the Salem Civic Association if you haven't already. I also ask you to consider lending your talents and efforts to our progress. You may be just what we need.

To become a member fill out and mail the form in this issue or attend a meeting. Reach out to me at jakewheeler.780@gmail.com with questions.

Aging in Place Community Survey

by Charity Eilerman

The Village Movement is spreading throughout the country as our population continues to age. The idea is rather simple as "neighbors helping neighbors" is the basis for these member-based non-profit organizations that are proving to keep older adults in their homes longer than those without this type of support.

Please help us identify what is most important to you. Your opinion matters and will be considered as we explore whether there is enough need/interest in starting a Village in Northland. Please take a few minutes to complete the survey as soon as possible. Your responses will help us gauge interest and will help define social activities and services offered. It will also help define service area, so if this is something you'd like to see in your neighborhood, please complete the survey.

Age 18-49: Please note that this survey takes approximately 5 minutes to complete and can be found at: <https://tinyurl.com/y72ta6pz>

Age 50+: Please note that this survey takes approximately 15 minutes to complete and can be found at: <https://tinyurl.com/yc4rmd7c>

Please call 614-205-8174 if you would like a paper copy, need this survey translated into another language, or if you prefer to answer the survey verbally.

Salem 'Welcome Wagon'

Here's an Idea

by Pam Unger

I'm sure we can all agree that the Salem Civic Association needs more members representing a broader spectrum of the area's residents. Right now the membership is weighted to longer term residents who are, well, shall we say—older! I suggest that SCA form a Welcoming Committee as a subgroup of the Membership Committee, with a minimum of three members plus the Membership Committee chair. The committee's duties would be simple: to identify new area residents, to visit them with a bundle of information plus donated goods and services welcoming them to the area, and to encourage them to join SCA. Rounding up donations would also be part of the duties.

Questions and issues (in no particular order):

1. How would new residents be identified?
2. What information would we want to provide them, and would anything new need to be written?
3. Should new residents be offered reduced dues? (Personally I think our dues are already too low!)
4. Would the welcome package need to be approved by the SCA membership or would the committee act independently once they're appointed?

I would be willing to explore this idea further and possibly serve on a Welcoming Committee but I am not willing to take on leadership responsibility!

Please Won't You Be My Neighbor...

by Rae Kirkbride

Some of us grew up hearing that song sung on the television. Some of us grew up with that as an actual concept—neighbors. I remember growing up in multiple neighborhoods where we knew everyone, and often everyone's business. The Good, The Bad and The Ugly. Today's little towns, burbs, and communities don't often have that sense of community. Some will probably argue and take offense at that, stating that Salem is the exception to that rule, and while I will agree to some extent, I would ask you this: How well do you know your neighbors?

Case in point: Some years back, my parents lived in an upscale Powell, Ohio neighborhood. Do you know what the police eventually found across the street? A meth lab in the basement. Shocker! Everyone in the neighborhood was in shock. Those folks kept to themselves, and although a friendly wave was exchanged every time someone pulled in or out of a driveway, their house was not really visited, nor were folks invited over for coffee or a beer. Now I'm not saying your next door neighbor is running a meth lab in their basement. What I'm saying is, I believe that the majority of middle America has lost that community feel; that safety of knowing your neighbors; the feeling that if an emergency occurred in the middle of the night, you could knock on any door and your children would feel safe going to their house or they would feel safe if your neighbors had to come over and stay with them while you tended to an emergency.

If I were to ask you how well you know people in the houses on either side of you, what would you say? If I asked you if you knew the five neighbors to your east, west, north, or south, could you answer that you knew them well? When I moved into this area in 1981, I knew everyone on the block. Now I only know a select few. And although I know some well, and I would recognize most by face because I make it a point to know who comes and goes from my street, there are some whose names I don't even know.

This is not a condemnation by any means, but a question. How important is a neighbor to you? Do you want to know your neighbors? More importantly, do you want your neighbors to know you? There is a certain sense of safety and camaraderie when we know people in our corner of the world. There is also, of course, an increase in vulnerability with that concept. But with that vulnerability comes close personal friendship.

How much do we want to know our neighbors, and how much do we want them to know us?

I used to think the question was, what happened to that sense of neighborliness and how do we get it back? Now I wonder how many really want it? We seem to live in a world of autonomy and a lot of folks seem very comfortable with that. There are tons of ways to get involved with your neighbors, with your neighborhood. We can attend the civic meetings and meet people, we can make suggestions of events in the neighborhood or even host one. But first we have to decide—how much do we want to know our neighbors, and how much do we want them to know us? I, personally, want to know them, be able to count on them, and I want them to know they can count on me. How much of a neighbor do you want to be?
